Class Analyzes Local Farmers

The Pamplin Adult Farmer Class discussed the subject of "Farm Management" at its regular class meeting last Thursday night, Mack J. Smith, county agent for Appomattox County, was the discussion leader. Mr. Smith used the records of six dairy farms, five beef cattle farms, and ten general farms in the county as the focal point for the place of good management in today's farming operations. Analyses of these records were made to show the differences in net income, cost of operations, acres in crop and pasture land, and value per hour of labor.

The discussion for this Thursday night will be on soybean production. The growing of soybeans in the county has been limited but a great deal of interest is being shown this year for the use of this crop for hay and beans. R. B. Carter, instructor of vocational agriculture, will lead this discussion.

YWA's Earn Citation

Researchers in the laboratory of the Agricultural Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have been testing disinfectants for use in household laundering and have come up with three which are recommended by the VPI Extension Service, according to Mrs. Eunice Motley, Prince Edward county home demonstration agent.

The researchers began looking for laundry disinfectants after they found that normal home laundering methods did not kill all disease-causing bacteria, especially when there was sickness in the family.

They worked for a laundry disinfectant which would not damage the material, would not produce irritation to the skin, and would also kill all the bacteria.

Three, pine oil, quaternary and phenolic, compounds have been given the nod of approval.

These bacteriologists give the following suggestions for selecting the best available disinfectants for killing bacteria in the laundry.

* Look for the word "disinfectant," then read the list of active ingredients. If it is a pine oil, choose one with at least 8% pine oil.

* Note the strength of the phenolic or quaternary disinfectants. A high percentage of the active ingredients in the product may cause the fabric to be lighter but not so much of the product is needed to do the job. For example, where a cupful of a three per cent active ingredient product is called for, only a half cup is needed of the six per cent product.

The cost is less when the product is primarily a disinfectant rather than an all-purpose cleaner containing such ingredients as detergents and whiteners.

The user is warned to follow directions on the label when using the disinfectant. They are placed there for safety's sake.

* Find out how many gallons of water the machine tub uses and calculate the proper amount of the disinfectant to be used with it.

* If a chlorine bleach is used it should be put in the wash water so as to be removed in the rinsing. Put in the bleach before adding the clothes and remember it is harmful to wool, silk, and certain dyes.

* Because detergents in the wash water are likely to inactivate quaternary compounds, this type of disinfectant should be used in the rinse water only.

Liquid chlorine bleaches and pine oil disinfectants may be purchased in grocery stores but quaternary and phenolic disinfectants may be found only in industrial supply stores in some areas, Mrs. Motley explained.

DINING OUT AT HOME WITH FROZEN FOODS

To celebrate National Rice Week, which this year marks the 277th annual planting of rice in the United States, treat the family to a well "cheesed" rice casserole which serves equally well as a main dish or an accompaniment to the main dish. National Rice Week is March 17-23.

Start with cooked rice and a wedge of sharp cheese. Add a smooth cream sauce, chopped pimiento for color, and sliced ripe olives for flavor and texture contrast. Blend well and heat through and what do you have! An easy-to-do casserole requiring less preparation time than most main courses, yet a savory mixture ideal for serving at meatless Lenten meals.

Work out a design on top of the casseroled mixture with the olives and cheese, if you will, but make sure that the rice — the main ingredient of the recipe — is tender and fluffy. To insure this, cook 1½ cups regular white milled rice in 3 cups water with 1½ teaspoons salt to boiling; reduce heat, stir, cover, and cook for 14 minutes or until all liquid is absorbed. You'll then have 4½ cups tender and fluffy cooked rice — enough for the recipe plus ½ cup bonus.

CHEESY RICE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
2 cups (½ pound) shredded sharp cheese
4 cups cooked rice
¾ cup chopped pimiento, optional
1 cup sliced ripe olives

Melt butter and blend in flour and salt. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and stir in 2/3 of cheese and olives. Add rice and pimiento; mix well. Turn into a greased 1½ quart baking dish. Sprinkle remaining olives over rice and top with remaining cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot.
Makes 6 servings.

Thy Shining Robe

God came so near to earth last night,
Gently covered it with His shining robe of white
He often comes while we are fast asleep
Through all the nights, he doth his vigil keep
Today we gaze in wonder, at the lovely sight—
As in His very presence, what joy, pure delight!
All bare spots, all ugly spots, now all aglow.
Hidden beneath thy beautiful robe of snow.

Father thou canst cover me, make me pure and white
Just as thou didst this old earth last night
With thy gentle touch make my life a shining light.
Wash me cleanse me, make me spotless in thy sight
I am not worthy to utter thy precious holy name
Yet, thou dost bid me come to thee — just the same.
So from sin, sorrow, and shame, I now come.
Weary and lone, I lour for rest, and my heavenly home.

Just as I am, thou hast promised to receive.
All, who come repenting and sincerely believe.
Our sins may be as scarlet, they shall be as wool, we know.
Though red like crimson, they shall be as wool, we know.
Cover me with thy shining robe of righteousness white —
As thou didst cover this old earth last night.
With thy gentle touch, make my life a shining light.
That following in my footsteps others may be lead aright.

The Governor's Highway Safety Committee says that increased hours of darkness cause both November and December to be high-death months. Pedestrians are particularly vulnerable. Walking or driving, always look out when it's dark out.

Report From Richmond

Delegate Pennington Foresees New Pipeline Tax Resources For Area

New tax resources for area pipeline counties and readjustments to salvage the greater part of the "quite dead" Stone Bill for new highway finance are foreseen in a legislative progress report today by Delegate William A. Pennington, of Buckingham county.

The latest report of the Buckingham physician - legislator follows:

As the 1964 General Assembly draws to a close I believe there are certain bills passed and pending which are of considerable interest to our people. The apparent peace and harmony theme now in vogue reflects Governor Harrison's unaggressive posture; the Governor wants to keep the waters calm even if the James River is not deepened for a while.

There is still a great deal of work left to be done. Well over one thousand bills have been introduced and hundreds of them are still before committees.

I believe that the compromise relating to the Milk Commission has the approval of all our dairymen.

Pipeline Taxes

On February 17, our Pipeline Bill was reported from the Finance Committee. It would require the State Corporation Commission to assess the properties of Colonial Pipeline in 38 localities for purposes of taxable revenue because these localities and especially for Cumberland which has a 1200-mile pipeline facility. This is far better than a tax based on tangible

Sleeping Watchman

By Mrs. A. C. Lawson
Jesus said to the three, "Stay here and Watch
For the dreaded hour is near at last."
On olives brow and all alone
He prayed to the Father that the cup might pass
He went back to th efaithful few
And found that all were fast asleep.
Said he, "Your weary hearts are true
But the flesh of mortal man is weak."
He went back to the faithful few
And prayed 'till sweat and blood rolled down
If it be thy will, let this cup pass
Provide some plan for saving man.
Never the less thy will be done
Not my will Father
For I am thy Son
I can not go much farther.
Then back he went with tired feet
He found the three still fast asleep
Awake! he cried, they come in power
Could ye not watch with me one hour?

Mrs. Lawson is a member of the Adult Ladies Class, Evergreen Methodist Church. She contributed this poem in connection with a Sunday School lesson recently dealing with three disciples, Peter, James and John.
